Justice For Albert

There has been no new news from the police to date but we have formally applied for a copy of the coroner's report, and a copy of the report submitted by the investigating officer.

We Told You So!

Several issues ago we warned all comrades to avoid contact with Larry O' Hara. Larry, who describes himself as an independent researcher, has tried to establish contact with nationalist groups throughout Britain. He was using his anti-Searchlight credentials to gain information from nationalist groups. We warned that Larry was working to his own agenda and intended to challenge Searchlight for a share of the pot of gold that often motivates the anti-fascist business. Larry then did a smear campaign against the International Third Position, who were one of the groups that refused to co-operate with him. How much money he got for providing a story about the ITP's Spanish project to the national media isn't known but we did try to warn comrades of the dangers of association with him. Now O'Hara turns up as a journalist writing for none other than the IRA newspaper, An Phoblacht.

The Untouchables

The "Untouchables" was the nickname originally given to an elite law and order group in the United States. But now, in Britain, it often refers to those who consider themselves above the law.

The latest of these seems to be "King" Neville Lawrence. His majesty and a friend were stopped recently by police in a routine "stop and search" operation because they strongly resembled the descriptions given of two criminals. Instead of being pleased to assist the police, King Neville made a formal complaint and received a personal apology from the Met Police Commissioner.

Over the past few years "King" Neville and his court have often criticised the police for alleged incompetence but now when he had the chance to assist the police in an investigation he objects. In Britain, Stop and Search is a legitimate and valuable method of detecting street criminals. If "King" Neville doesn't wish to comply with British laws then he should return to his native West Indies.

And the sooner the better!

Holocaust Day Is Here

In issue 42 we revealed that representatives of Britain's Jewish community have demanded the government appoint a new Remembrance Day specifically to commemorate the Holocaust. As expected, Blair and his Zionist puppets bowed to the demands.

Starting next year, January 27th will be Holocaust Memorial day. It is not yet known if there will be a public holiday or country-wide street parties financed by the State of Israel or the British Jewish community, both of whom have benefited financially from the Holocaust. But it is certain that traffic in our major cities will be disrupted as this tiny minority hold memorial ceremonies mimicking those held by the rest of the nation on November 11th each year.

Perhaps the most worrying aspect of this is the decision to involve schoolchildren in the project. It is suspected that all schools will be instructed to promote Holocaust Day and continue to brainwash our children to accept, without question, the authorised version of events in Eastern Europe some 50 years ago.

If this is the case, then we would strongly advise parents to absent their children from school on that day in protest.

Finally

It has been widely reported that an Asian visitor to Wakefield prison had complained that a Prison "sniffer dog" was racist because it had "sniffed him out" for further investigation on several occasions.

As expected, the Commission for Racial Equality has promised to take up the complaint.

Your editor has written to the CRE reminding them that under the CRE's own guidelines "In the event of a specific complaint, every effort should be made to obtain written statements from the complainant and all those named in the complaint".

My letter asks, WHO IS GOING TO GET A STATEMENT FROM THE DOG?

MIND BRITAIN'S BUSINESS

As British politicians clamour to join the isolation of tiny Austria whose sole crime has been to honour the democratic concept of government by the will of the people, we are reminded of the words, MIND BRITAIN'S BUSINESS, spoken by Sir Oswald Mosley at Earls Court in July 1939, when he attempted to persuade British politicians not to enter into a war against Germany over issues which did not concern us.

Clearly the political situation in Austria poses no threat to Britain and her people and Mr Blair should keep his nose firmly out.

When the Austrian Freedom Party (FPÖ) won 52 seats in the Austrian parliament, the same number as the conservative Peoples Party, it became obvious to one and all that in a parliament of 183 seats a coalition would need to be formed to run the country. The socialists, with 65 seats, first courted the conservatives to join a socialist dominated coalition but the Peoples Party, like the majority of the Austrian voters, were disillusioned after 30 years of socialism and instead offered a share, in a coalition government of their own creation, to the FPÖ.

Coalition governments have been a feature of European politics since the introduction of the proportional representation system of voting and at one time or another almost every country in mainland Europe has been governed by a coalition.

The Freedom Party fought their recent election campaign comparing the influx of illegal immigrants and economic refugees in Austria with the rising unemployment figures. Austria has over 500,000 unemployed out of a population of just eight million. The FPO also questioned the wisdom of continuing Austria's membership of the European Union. Over 2 million Austrians (27%) voted in democratic elections for the Freedom Party making them for the first time the main opposition party in the country.

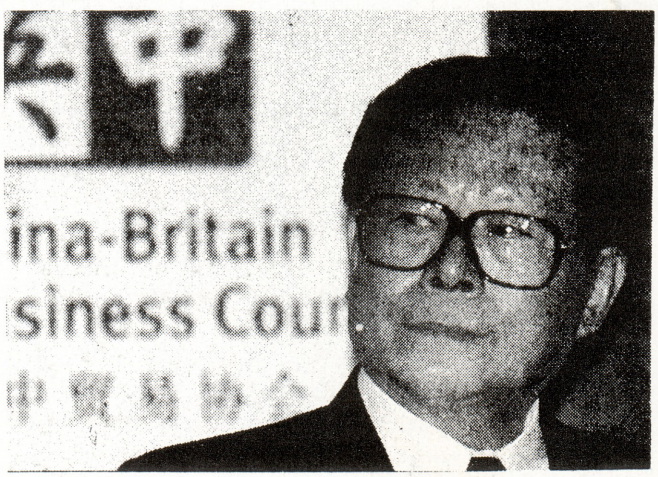
The concerns raised by the FPÖ during the election campaign about EU corruption and inefficiency has been a contributory factor to the decision by fourteen EU member states to attempt to interfere in the democratic system which they claim to espouse. European Commissioners (who are appointed, not elected) decided to blackmail the Austrian President, Thomas Klestil, into refusing to sanction a coalition government which included the, FPÖ. The wily Klestil realised that if this option was used fresh elections would have to be held and the risk that the FPÖ would massively increase its vote was one that he was not willing to take.

Just what form will the isolation of Austria take is as yet unclear but certainly the vultures are looking for a quick death of democracy there.

Ironically, those who are loudest in calling for the isolation policy are those who need most to address their energies in resolving problems in their own countries. Jospin, the Prime Minister of France, cannot do anything without the approval of the communist dominated trade unions. Schroder, Chancellor of Germany, is still wondering which German political party has the largest illegal "slush fund" still hidden away. D'Alema, Prime Minister of Italy, worries constantly whether ongoing corruption investigations will tarnish his own political career.

In Britain, the Daily Mail newspaper reported "that Tony Blair was at the forefront of the campaign to isolate Austria". It would seem Mr Blair doesn't like the politics of Jörge Haider, the charismatic FPÖ leader. Yet the same Tony Blair welcomed with open arms the premier of Communist China to Britain recently. But, perhaps, Mr Blair actually admires the totalitarian politics of China.

Although we subscribe to the wise words of Mosley, MIND BRITAIN'S BUSINESS, we must also view the Austrian situation with some trepidation. For if the democratic route to power is denied to nationalists, wherever they may be, then other undemocratic routes will become the only alternative.



Chinese Communist Leaders Are Made Welcome In Blair's Britain. But Austrian Democrats Are Not.

Jews Get Holocaust Day, Now Asians Demand Diwali Day

Following the success of the Jewish lobby in attaining a Holocaust Memorial Day for Britain, Asian leaders are now demanding a new public holiday to be introduced into the calendar to celebrate Diwali, the Indian festival of light.

The case for a national holiday to honour the most important day in the Indian calendar has been raised by the Asian MP for Leicester East, Keith Vaz. The call for Diwali day is certain to be supported by the Prime Minister, Tony Blair, as both he and his wife have already attended Diwali celebrations.

A request by the League Sentinel to have April 23rd declared a public holiday is likely to be rejected as no politicians seem interested in promoting the politically incorrect, St George, the patron Saint of England.

Four Councillors In Court On Election Fraud Charges

Four councillors, three Liberal Democrats and a Conservative, have appeared in court in Hackney, East London, charged with 36 offences of election fraud. relating to local elections. This followed a year long investigation by Special Branch. The councillors, Isaac Leibowitz, a 34 year old Conservative councillor, Shahid Achala, Ian Sharer and Zev Lieberman, all Liberal Democrats, have been charged with various offences including conspiracy to defraud, forgery and undue influence under the Representation of the Peoples Act. A fifth man, Chananya Gross, faced one charge of conspiracy to defraud

All five defendants were remanded on bail.

Asylum Seekers Demand Better Accommodation

Twenty-five Asylum seekers who claim to have fled the horrors of Kosovo are now campaigning to escape once again, this time from the horrors of Margate!

The twenty-five refugees, who are suspected of being East European gipsies, have been living in the Kent seaside town for the last six months and have complained that they are unhappy with their rooms and the food, provided free of charge, with the bills being paid by nearby Bexley council.

After inspecting the hotel the council environment officer was satisfied with both the standard of food and accommodation. It is suspected that the real motive behind the refugee's campaign is a wish to be transferred to accommodation in London where they could earn money by working illegally or by begging.

A local resident told League Sentinel, "It is true that Margate has declined over the past few years but it can't be worse than Kosovo, can it?"

NEWS AROUND BRITAIN

Crimes Up, Police Morale Down

Low police morale is being blamed for a dramatic rise in crime, combined with officers' reluctance to use "stop and search" powers for fear of being labelled racist. Street crimes such as muggings have risen by almost 19% since the Macpherson report labelled the police service "institutionally racist".

Although it was London's Metropolitan police who were criticised by Macpherson, the effect has been to lower morale, and police efficiency throughout most of the country.

But it is the Macpherson report that gets most of the blame according to the Met's new Commissioner, John Stevens. He told Police Review magazine, "Since publication of the inquiry report, the number of stops in London had halved, while street crime had soared". Worried about New Labour's image, the Prime Minister, Tony Blair, was widely reported to have insisted to the new Commissioner that stop and search powers be used more frequently, but police constables are sceptical. "The message from above is its OK to use stop and search providing those stopped are not predominantly black. What's the use of stopping white or Asian youths, if the victim of a crime reports that the perpetrator was black?", said a young officer to our reporter.

Police Are Worried About BNP Spoof Leaflet

Not only have the police lost a great deal of morale but it would seem they have also lost the minuscule sense of humour that senior officers are issued with.

A spoof BNP leaflet, mimicking an official police publication about hate crime, has led to threats of legal action against the BNP.

The leaflet, and the resulting over-reaction from the police, earned the BNP far more publicity than if the police had ignored it. When our police liaison correspondent telephoned a particularly miserable specimen of senior officer (probably ex-traffic division) the officer would only confirm that "the leaflet is being investigated".

Troops Out March Into Trouble

The IRA puppet group, the Troops Out Movement, met stiff opposition from Londoners as they held their annual march through North London recently.

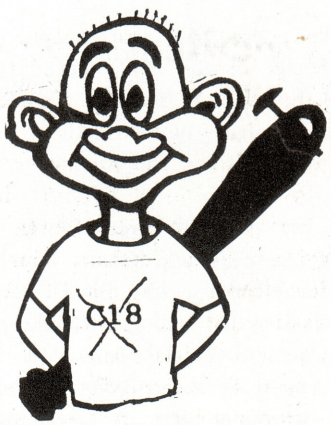
In addition to local anger at the marchers, a hard core of approximately 200 counter-demonstrators from both the BNP and NF turned out to oppose the march.

A large police presence was needed to protect the marchers from the hostility of the counter-demonstrators.

Thanks to police action the annual event, which is stewarded by the Marxist-IRA fan club, Red Action, passed off without any serious violence, with one notable exception. League Sentinel has been told the sorry tale of five Red Action stewards leaving the area, complete with a nice flag, who accidentally "bumped" into three young men who were once alleged to have links to the notorious C18 organisation.

Before anyone could say "Gerry Adams", three Red Action members were on their way to hospital, two left the scene at speed and the flag had obtained new owners.

When this story was being retold to our League Sentinel correspondent, she happened to query the C18 connection. "They haven't gone away you know", replied her source, somewhat ominously.



"Pssst, Wanna Buy A Flag"?

JUDEA DECLARES

JUDEA DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY. Thus screamed the headlines of the Daily Express newspaper of Friday the 24th o March 1933. The call to war was made by the World Jewish Organisation and called upon "Jews Of All The World To Unite" and boycott German goods. The reason: the democratic election of a National Socialist government in Germany just two months before. Sadly, certain Jews and their puppets were not content with showing their displeasure with the election results by merely boycotting German goods but campaigned vigorously, and successfully, to drag Britain into a real war that eventually cost not only millions of lives but the destruction of our very empire.

In a somewhat sinister and frightening parallel the Prime Minister of Israel, Ehud Barak, said, "The Jewish nation overall, and the state of Israel at its head, will not allow the world to go on its way in the face of developments in Austria".

Now what could Barak mean by THE JEWISH NATION OVERALL AND THE STATE OF ISRAEL WILL NOT ALLOW THE WORLD TO GO ON ITS WAY?

And precisely who is this threat aimed at?

The inclusion of the patriotic, Austrian Freedom Party into a coalition government poses no threat whatsoever to the state of Israel, or indeed to the "Jewish nation overall", whatever that might be.

The appointment of an FPÖ member as the new Austrian Defence Minister will have no effect on Israel's arms supplies as the US provides all that Israel demands. So what is the fuss?
The FPÖ has controlled several large areas of Austria through regional elections for some time now, and to date no concentration camps have been built. No Jews are discriminated against, so why is Israel determined to interfere with Austrian democracy?

Accusations have been made that the parents of Jörge Haider, the leader of the FPÖ, were at one time supporters of the National Socialist Party. But in the 1930s so were hundreds of thousands of Europeans in Germany, Norway, Holland and Austria.

Certainly, in his political career, Jörge Haider has done little to praise Israel, but as Israelis have no vote in Austrian elections, why should Haider bother? And comments allegedly made by Haider praising the unemployment policies of the National Socialists were not unseemly, as it is a fact that the Nazis reduced the level of unemployment in Germany from six million in January 1933 down to less than a million in just three years. Surely an achievement worthy of praise.

Also Haider's praise of the soldiers of the wartime Waffen SS as being "decent people, people of character" has upset some countries, especially the United States. But, in a war which saw sexual abuse of civilians and large scale raping of women and female children as a terror tactic used by both Russian and US soldiers (a habit which still pervades some US servicemen), the Waffen SS were ordered never to sexually abuse civilians. The penalty for disobedience of this order was death by firing squad and it is still a point of pride and honour amongst Waffen SS veterans that this order was never broken!

Predictably, the United States, a country which has never defied Israel, obediently followed Israel's demand to isolate and condemn the democratically elected government in Austria.
The announcement to withdraw the US Ambassador was made through the US Secretary of State, Madelieine Albright, a lady who only recently re-discovered her Jewish roots and presumably recommended the decision.

Fascist Group Claims Cape Town Bombs

A previously unknown fascist group has claimed responsibility for the bombings of a homosexual bar and a pizza restaurant in Cape Town recently

The group, calling itself the, Arnold Leese Battalion of the White Wolves claimed in a letter to a South African radio station that they had planted the two pipe-bombs in retaliation for Nelson Mandela's support for the family of Stephen Lawrence.
Over fifty people were injured in the bombings.
A source close to the Cape Town police told our Southern Africa correspondent that the police were not convinced that the attack was committed by fascists.

ISRAEL

A militant Jewish activist has been sentenced to thirty months imprisonment after being found guilty of planning to desecrate the grave of the Muslim founder of the Hamas freedom movement.
Avigdor Askin, admitted planning to place a pig's head on the grave hoping that the desecration would provoke a violent response from Palestinian Arabs. This would give Zionist militants an excuse to retaliate.

"Witchunts" have been conducted by international Jewish organisations against European banks who, they claimed, had in dormant accounts money deposited by Jews who later died in the Holocaust. It has now been revealed that the Israeli, Bank Leumi, also has dormant accounts believed to belong to Holocaust victims! It is claimed that thousands of Jews paid a minimum of £1000 into Bank Leumi's predecessor the, Anglo-Palestinian Bank in 1934 as a condition of applying for an entry visa to Palestine. Many of these then perished in the war and relatives trying to recover the money were told by Bank Leumi that they had no records for that period.
The bank has now admitted to having "several thousand" dormant accounts dating from 1903 to 1955.

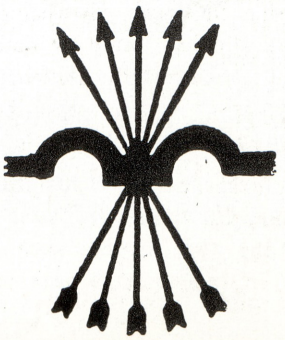
Spanish Youth Look Again To Fascism

The Spanish government is concerned at the large numbers of young Spaniards who are turning their backs on establishment political parties and once again embracing Fascism. A government report reveals that over the last four years the number of young Spaniards joining Fascist groups has increased by five hundred percent! The report estimates that there are now at least 20,000 young Spaniards active in Fascist politics. The Internet has been efficiently utilised to distribute Fascist propaganda with one Barcelona based website received 5000 visits in just two days.
The most fruitful areas for recruitment has been in the inner cities and in large industrial towns.
Many of the youths have joined the nationalist, Alliance For National Unity, led by Ricardo Ynestrillas, whose father was an army officer in the Franco regime before being murdered by Basque Marxist terrorists. Other young Spaniards have joined the longer established Falangist party. The impact of so many young people turning to Fascism has raised eyebrows especially when many music gigs now end with the singing of the traditional Franco anthem, Cara al Sol (Face the Sun).
The impact of increasing political awareness by Spanish youth was demonstrated in the Euro elections in June last year when the Spanish nationalist vote doubled from the previous election.

From our Spanish Correspondent.



Who Really Murdered

In the last issue of League Sentinel we featured an article on the life of American Nazi Party leader, George Lincoln Rockwell. This resulted in a larger than usual postbag, with countless enquiries for more information on this great patriot. At the same time, we received a letter from an American comrade which casts some light on the events surrounding his assassination.

The sun shone brightly on a small shopping mall in Virginia on August 25th 1967 as George Lincoln Rockwell left his car to go to the local laundromat to do his weekly laundry. Although a national figure, Rockwell was never too proud to do his own chores including the mundane weekly wash.
As he approached the building, a lone gunman on the roof of the shopping centre, opened fire. Rockwell collapsed on the pavement in a pool of blood, dead before his body hit the ground.

As news of the murder spread around the world local police announced that they had arrested a former ANP member, John Patler.

The murder trial was conducted with unusual haste and was somewhat remarkable for three reasons. Firstly, during the trial police revealed that they had received an anonymous telephone call detailing where the murder weapon, a 9mm Mauser machine-pistol, could be found. A weapon, conveniently registered to the accused. Secondly, police officers testified at the trial that Patler had been arrested running from the scene of the murder "just a few minutes after it had taken place". But Patler was arrested some 20 miles from the scene, yes 20 miles, "in just a few minutes"? Finally, the question was never asked as to how Patler knew Rockwell was going to the laundromat at that time of the day. Had he been tipped off by an accomplice?
Remember at this time, Rockwell was under almost permanent surveillance by FBI agents, none of whom testified at the trial. Only the briefest mention was made of a previous assassination attempt on Rockwell just two months earlier when a gunman fired at Rockell as he drove into the driveway of the Arlington headquarters building.
John Patler was found guilty of Rockwell's murder and served less than ten years in the state penitentiary. On release he vanished from sight and has not been seen since.

The United States enjoys one of the most liberal of Freedom of Information acts anywhere in the Western world with US citizens having rights that far exceed Britain and Europe but those very same citizens are the victims of the type of high-tech surveillance unequalled even in communist Russia and cold-war Eastern Europe. The National Security Agency and the FBI effectively spy on more of their own citizens than any other nation in the world!
This is not a new phenomena, and in the 1960s the main exponent of this mass surveillance was the head of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover.
Hoover hated all forms of dissidents. Black revolutionaries, White communists and Nazis all became targets of the most powerful man in the United States. Hoover, despite being limited by the US congress to activities within the borders of the US, managed to maintain an unhealthy relationship with the Israeli secret service, Mossad, and their US-based puppet, the Jewish Defence League. Hoover knew that the JDL had Rockwell on their "hit list" but chose to do nothing.
After many years in the political wilderness, Rockwell suddenly began to attract the attention of the media and the support of many Americans. In the summer of 1966, in Chigago, he led a counter demonstration against Black militant, Martin Luther King, which brought 12,000 white protestors on to the streets. In Marquette Park he addressed 3000 people and then led thousands more demonstrators in violent clashes with civil-rights activists in Louisville, Kentucky. Suddenly Rockwell was being taken seriously, by friend and foe alike!

Chicago. 1966. A Rockwell Rally Attracts 3000 People. Now He Was Being Taken Seriously By Friend And Foe Alike.

Lincoln Rockwell ?

Rockwell's new found fame brought invitations to appear on television chat shows and nation-wide media interest was awakened. Alarmed by his growing popularity established politicians such as US Congressman, Everett Dirkson, even began their own campaign for "White Power". Rockwell had arrived!

When Rockwell was banned from entering the State of Illinois and threatened with prison by the corrupt State Governor Richard Oglivie (later convicted of corruption) Rockwell unexpectedly confronted Ogilvie in his own office and challenged him to implement his threat, all shown on prime-time television. The public loved it.

This massive increase of support undoubtedly brought him to the attention of J. Edgar Hoover. A man who hated change.

At this point we need to look closely at the decade of the 60s, perhaps the most troubled decade of the century.
The USA, despite being a relatively violent country in comparison to Britain, had up to the 60s very little political violence. But before that decade had ended several political figures had been murdered, including Jack and Bobby Kennedy, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King. George Wallace was the victim of a failed assassination attempt that left him crippled for life.

At this time the director of the FBI was the legendary, J. Edgar Hoover, a man renown for his hatred of anything and anybody who was a perceived threat to "the American way of life". This included blacks and both liberal and patriotic whites.
His obsessive hatred of the Kennedys was well known as was his feelings about black activists. What was not so well known was Hoover's hatred of National Socialism. As far back as 1938, Hoover was guilty of harassing the pro-NS, German-American Bund leader, Fritz Kuhn.

Now faced with the growing popularity of Rockwell, a man who above all others would have been a threat to "the established order", the psychopathic Hoover would have had no compunction in eradicating the threat.

The United States "Freedom of Information Act" is more liberal than that of almost any other Western nation but the misdeeds of Hoover still remain secret. However, it must be noted that police "criminal" profiles show that when a suspected serial-killer dies, or is in some other way stopped from continuing his crimes, then he is probably guilty.

Using this criteria it will come as no surprise that following the death of J. Edgar Hoover in 1972, the deadly spate of political assassinations ceased.

The assassination of Commander Rockwell clearly demonstrates the lengths our enemies are prepared to go to stop us. His murder dramatised the life-and-death nature of the National Socialist revolution.
Rockwell fell, not as a victim, but a willing sacrifice to that struggle. In doing so he passed over the banner to us to continue the struggle until victory has been achieved.

OBITUARY

"I had a Loyal Comrade, none better will you find"

It was with great sadness that we heard of the death in November of

Dr Kitty Little

Dr Little was one of the first British doctors to enter a concentration camp in 1945 both in her medical capacity and later as an official observer.
Her own experiences and information from Polish Intelligence led her to believe no more than 250,000 persons had perished in the Polish camps up to the end of the war. Although, she later conceded many more died later as a result of virulent typhoid and other diseases which had already infected many inmates by the time the camps were liberated.
Dr Kitty Little made it her crusade to tell the truth about what she had learned, but a blanket of secrecy and half truths was imposed. A situation which still exists today.
Dr Kitty conducted her campaign for truth right up to her death.
For her the struggle is now over. It is now up to all of us to continue her crusade for truth.

EXPOSED AT LAST!

The Protocols of the Elders of Bilderberg

Conspiracy theories are sometimes the product of a far too vivid imagination. It has been said that the poet and the paranoiac find connection where the logical mind finds none. But when the proof is thrust under one's nose, the very stench of duplicity and corruption turns theory into reality. This is the case with that ultra-secret cabal called the Bilderberg Group. You can believe in UFOs or even fairies at the bottom of the garden ... but the Bilderberg Group is real !

A journalist on the Scottish Sunday Herald resigned his post recently after his editor distorted the facts provided by a Canadian researcher on the Bilderberg Conference held in Sintra, Portugal, in June this year. The journalist, Nic Outterside, complained that a senior editor rewrote his original copy in order to trivialise and ridicule the "exclusive". The secret agenda of the Bilderberg Group has, however, been blown after researcher John K. Whitely leaked the entire Sintra agenda to The News, Portugal's largest circulation English language newspaper.

The Bilderberg Group's first meeting took place at the Bilderberg Hotel in Oosterbeek, Holland, at the end of May, 1954. Meeting annually ever since, the group consists of bankers, industrialists and politicians. Included are representatives of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund ... and military leaders. Their debates are held in secret and are not reported. According to Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands who attended that first meeting, "The hotel was ringed by security guards, so that not a single journalist got within a mile of the place. The participants were pledged not to repeat publicly what was said in the discussions". The group is, in fact, a supra-national government manipulating the global economy and establishing monetary rates around the world. It even selects the political leaders who it deems fit to rule and targets those it wishes to dispose of. Again, Prince Bernhard clarified the modus operandi of the group with, "It is difficult to re-educate people who have been brought up on nationalism to the idea of relinquishing part of their sovereignty to a supra-national body". So why the secrecy?

The agenda of the 1999 conference reveals the reason for keeping it all under wraps. The guest list before me does not read like a transatlantic old buddies' get-together for the purpose of discussing everyone's good health. Here are more than a few picked at random: Ted Arison, Israeli financier, Abby Cohen of Goldman Sachs, Yoram Dinstein of Tel Aviv University, Erwin Eisenberg of the Eisenberg Group, Jacob Frankel of the Bank of Israel, Yehuda Friedlander of Bar Ilan University, Ed Goldberg and Stephen Hammerman of Merril Lynch, Lou Gerstner of IBM, Richard Grasso of the New York Stock Exchange, Chaim Harari of the Weizmann Institute,, Yehuda Hayuth of Haifa University, Avraham Horovitz, Israeli chief scientist, Carl Ichan, Wall Street financier, David Komansky of Merril Lynch, Arie Lavie, former chief scientist of Israel, Henry Kissinger, Gerald Levin of Time Warner Inc, Yaacov Ne'eman, former Israeli finance minister, Yuval Ne'eman, Israeli physicist, Uriel Reichmann of Israel, Paul Reichmann, Canadian "businessman", James Schiro of PriceWaterhouse, Stephen Spielberg, Hollywood film producer, Shmuel Slavin, Israeli financier, Norman Spector of the Jerusalem Post, Yoram Yair, Israeli defence forces ... not forgetting Yehuda Amichai, Israeli poet. We are not sure why the ubiquitous Peter Mandleson was there, apart from holding Tony Blair's hand. Gerry Springer was otherwise engaged. When The News of Portugal published the details of the Sintra conference a few months ago, the international interest was such that The News' Internet site nearly crashed. This is the Bilderbergers' plan for the world. First, progress towards an Asian bloc led by Japan, the emphasis being on free trade, a single currency and political union. Next, the formation of a greater Albania with the trusteeship of an "independent" Kosovo. The return of the northern province of Yugoslavia consisting of 350,000 ethnic Hungarians to a greater Hungary. Germany take note. NATO is to be replaced by a Western European Army in order to leave US forces available for wider global policing. This W.E.A. will ultimately be subservient to American foreign policy. Two agenda items concerned a Middle East peace settlement and a global taxation in support of the United Nations. It is interesting that others in attendance included Bill Gates of Microsoft, along with other bosses of key computer companies, because a further proposal was a global tax on computer e-commerce, followed by an individual tax collected on the UN's behalf by "national" governments.

The media owned by Bilderberg members has been silent but four nationals in Portugal did run the story ... Jornal de Noticias, Público, O Independente and 24 Horas. In the words of The News, "Do these people simply meet for a few days, discuss global matters and then shred the results on the way out and forget about the whole weekend? I think not. If they are discussing world affairs, they will feel the need to act on their findings". According to 24 Horas, the Bilderbergers brought 200 armed guards to keep the meeting secret ... WALLS HAVE EARS !
